

Mobile Flood Units help local communities

Mobile Flood Protection Unit

Alteau; holding back the water

Scottish Power, an electricity provider in the UK, uses Mobile Flood Units in order to protect their assets, including substations, during floods.

Mobile Flood Units contain Aqua-Sac sandless sandbags, Alteau self-inflating barriers, flood pumps and other items needed when dealing with floods.

The unit is containerised to allow for easy transportation to flood affected areas.

With the recent severe floods the Mobile Flood Units were called upon 4 times, including helping the local community of Beaumaris in Wales, where the Alteau fold-out flood barrier was successfully used in diverting water away from properties, preventing substantial damage.

No surprise therefore that Mobile Flood Units are quickly becoming a popular solution for flood prone communities.
